

MOBILE SALES

You're at a customer site and they place an order; your next step is to create a Sales Order... Mobile Sales lets you create a new Sales Order wherever you are and when connected to Wi-Fi or GPRS it can be sent to your system ready for picking authorisation. Link a Sales Order to an existing account or create a new account from the hand-held device with all relevant information. Mobile Sales will decrease lead time and increase efficiency because orders can be placed and processed in the same day.

Customer Selection

Locating and selecting a customer account takes little time when you need to produce a Sales Order out of the office. Identifying customer details, such as address or name of company, is enough to find the correct account. Once the correct customer has been selected it is possible to amend, edit or enter a 'one off' delivery address for the order. Creating a new customer account is just as easy with a clear user friendly form to input all the necessary customer information.

GPRS Sending

There is no need to delay the next stage of the order process once the order is confirmed as the details for the order that have been collected can be sent directly to the system from the off site location. GPRS can be used if a sim card has been installed to the hand-held device. Alternatively the details can be sent via Wi-Fi when a connection is available or via a USB connection.

Additional Products

Once the customer account has been created or selected, stock items can be added to the order. If the item is available to hand you can scan the product barcode, alternatively you can choose the requested items from a drop down menu. Once an item is selected the product description, price, order quantity and order value are displayed providing a timely and convenient opportunity to confirmation the order with the customer.

Stock Lookup

For convenience and to avoid potential errors, it is possible to do a stock look up on a product by scanning the product barcode or selecting it from a list on the hand-held device. Checking an item in Stock Lookup will provide information such as description, price and currency. This means that the customer is completely informed of all the details of the order and provides a reference point for your salesman.
